Security Deposit Required based on TransUnion Tenant Score

The amount of the security deposit required is based upon perceived risks. The lower the score the higher the risk is. The standard security deposit is one month's rent plus $500. In order to qualify for the standard security deposit, the TransUnion Tenant Score must be 675 or higher. TransUnion Tenant Scores will be combined and averaged (adding all the scores and then dividing by number of applicants) when determining the amount of the security deposit required.

Example 1

Applicant 1 Score = 692

Applicant 2 Score = 671

(Applicant 1 + Applicant 2) = Combined Score. $692+671 = 1363$

(Combined score / Number of Applicants) is Average TransUnion Tenant Score. $1363 / 2 = 681.50$

The combined TransUnion Tenant Score is greater than 675, so the standard security deposit of one month's rent plus $500 would apply

Example 2

Applicant 1 Score = 678

Applicant 2 Score = 567

(Applicant 1 + Applicant 2) = Combined Score. $678+567 = 1245$

(Combined score / Number of Applicants) is Average TransUnion Tenant Score. $1245 / 2 = 622.50$

The combined TransUnion Tenant Score is less than 675, so the security deposit would be determined from the following table.

Security Deposit Table

| TranUnion Credit Score | Deposit Required |
|-------------------------------|---------------------------|
| 675 and above | One month's rent + $500 |
| 650 to 674 | One month's rent + $750 |
| 625 to 649 | One month's rent + $1000 |
| 601 to 624 | Two month's rent |
| 600 and below | Not approved |
